OUTWARD BOUND Inspiring Australians

Lloyd Worthy
Community Partnerships Officer
Outward Bound Australia

After 36 years of policing, retired Australian Federal Police Commander Lloyd Worthy determined to balance “a somewhat jaundiced view of society” by transferring his focus from those doing the wrong thing to the other end of the social spectrum. Outward Bound Australia, described by Lloyd as highly ethical, values based and truly altruistic, currently provides that balance. His role of developing and nurturing the organisation’s Community Partnerships initiative provides the perfect opportunity to utilise his highly developed skills of inspiration and motivation so essential to his former role of leading operational teams investigating major and serious crime.

This diverse spread of experience has given him an insightful and somewhat unique view of human behaviour across all levels of society. In sharing that experience his passion is to break down negative stereotypes, particularly those levelled at the youth of today, and present the view that all individual limitations are ultimately self-imposed and can therefore be removed by redressing self-belief.

(“.....Lloyd was the catalyst for a very successful program in our town. Our community, including the Shire, the High School, the Police, Rotary and Lions, has wholeheartedly supported this Outward Bound Program.....I have no hesitation in recommending Lloyd. He is a genuinely passionate and entertaining spokesman.”)
